First Annual MINISTERS' WIVES Retreat

By Cindy Oliver, Section I Ladies Ministries Leader

Awesome, is the word to describe the first annual "Minister's Wives' Retreat" held at Barren River Lodge in Glasgow, KY. The ladies attending were a mixture from across the state of Kentucky, and also a few from surrounding states. We all enjoyed a great time of fellowship, sharing and rejoicing.

Sis Cheryl Becton was the special speaker and she was truly inspired by the Lord as she spoke to all hearts and minds in attendance. We felt a release of burdens and received a surge of power as she spoke to us on Friday night about the "Angels of the Lord" and how they are used by God to protect and shield us.

Saturday morning, Sis Becton stated, "The Joy of the Lord is our Strength" and we all rejoiced as she spoke to us about laughter, joy and just enjoying being a child of God, in our calling. As ministers' wives, we realized how this joy would greatly help us in dealing with the people and situations in our local churches.

Sis Phyllis Turner, Sis Lana Adkins and all others who made this possible, thank you very much. These good positive sessions helped every wife to understand how God will always help her fulfill her role in the local church.

MAY GOD'S BLESSING BE YOURS.

It Was JUST a Dime.

By Karen Fawbush

Financial struggles come to most of us, at one time or another. This time I needed a miracle in more ways than one. God knew it, and as He promised, He sent it right on time.

I had budgeted down to the last penny. I had only purchased what I absolutely needed, nothing that was just a want. But I had forgotten that wonderful thing called "tax". So, as I paid for my groceries, I was a dime short.

For some reason, probably stress had pushed me beyond reason, I was upset over this dime.

I know it was just a dime, but I didn't have it. The girl checking me out said, "Oh, that's all right. I'll put it in for you. I have a dime in my pocket." I appreciated her gesture but I just felt like she shouldn't have had to do it. I was God's child and He said He would provide and I had believed Him.

As I left the store, I thought, "I know; I'll find a dime lying on the ground as I go to my car." I didn't. "I know; I'll find one somewhere in my car and I'll take it in and give it to the girl," I planned. No dime was found.

I got in my car and left Wal-Mart.

Still I fumed. I shouldn't have had to take someone else's money. I had paid my tithes and had not wasted a penny.

As I approached the light it turned red. God spoke to my mind and said, "Go to the Pepsi machine in front of Sav-a-lot and there will be a quarter for you in the change holder. Take it back to the cashier and tell her where you got it. Tell her it is her dime back plus 15 cents interest for loaning it to you."

I was amazed. Could it be true? Would God really care enough about me to put a quarter in a drink machine? Now I felt silly.

What if someone saw me checking the machine but not buying anything? What would the cashier think about me?

"Are you going to let pride keep you from your miracle?" God spoke to my mind again.

"No, I'm not," I decided, "I will check that machine just in case it is there."

As I approached the store, I saw there were several machines. "I know, I'll check them all," I thought, "That way my chances are better of finding some left change."

I guess my faith was still a struggle, huh?

"I said the Pepsi machine," God reminded me in a stern voice. Yes, even talking to your mind his voice can have tones.

"Sorry, God," I said out loud, "I know what you said. I didn't mean to doubt. I just can't seem to help it."

I parked in front of the machines and walked to the Pepsi machine. It was dark and I felt like an idiot. But down deep inside there was hope. I placed two fingers inside the change slot of the machine.

I can not describe the feeling I felt as I withdrew a quarter. I held it up and the street light reflected off the shiny metal.

God was faithful! He was loving! He cared enough about me to do this silly little thing, for me!

I jumped back in my car and drove back to Wal-Mart. I went in and did as He said. I left the cashier with a quarter in her hand and her mouth hanging open.

I went on my merry way knowing a peace in my heart that had been missing before.

Everything would be all right. God truly is in control. He is real. I'm so glad I know Jesus.

Guest Article
By Bonnie Peacock
Odessa, Texas

“Madge! Is that you?” The West Texas draw was pronounced. The elderly woman sported bright orange hair and leaned on a leopard cane.

“Oh, sugar. I haven’t talked to you in ages!”

Kiss, kiss.

As I sat in the waiting room, two long-lost friends renewed their acquaintance as they settled on either side of me. Cringing, I had picked this remote area for the express purpose of getting caught up on my reading. Now, I was to be regaled with the events of the last few months of their lives.

“Shirley, you just finished that project downtown, didn’t you?”

“Oh, I did! It was just wonderful. We raised a truckload of money!” I wondered to myself how much money it took to fill a truck. I doubted I had ever seen that much.

“Didn’t you work on that project with Weatherly? I’ve heard so much about her. What was she like?”

“Well, let me tell you . . .” I shuttered to think of what I was about to hear. I held in my hands a book about improving my prayer life, and my ears were about to be assaulted by a character assassination. However, I was in for a pleasant surprise.

“She did not disappoint. She was everything I hoped she would be!”

As the conversation continued, I wondered how I could possibly meet this woman. I know a lot of wonderful people, but I always have room in my life for a person who does not disappoint.

Later that evening as I reflected over the intrusive conversation I had endured, I pondered the acclaim given the absent Weatherly. That is just like God! Only God is true and faithful. He is everything we want Him to be—need Him to be! I was confident that if Shirley and Madge spent enough time with Weatherly, she would eventually disappoint them.

The Scriptures are full of accolades to the greatness of God. Regardless of how highly He is acclaimed, He surpasses our wildest expectations.

How big we see God determines to what magnitude He is able to work in our lives. In fact, we are told to “ascribe . . . strength unto God” (Psalm 68:34).

Many circumstances are beyond our control, but how we see God is our choice. We can daily adjust our thinking upward. God is vast, immense, great, powerful, wise, excellent, dependable, holy, compassionate, love, and so much more.

We can either focus on what is going wrong in our lives, our own deficiencies, and broken dreams, OR we can lift our eyes to Him. The closer—the more we look at Him, the larger He becomes. We choose to magnify the Lord in our hearts and minds.

We are never more in the center of God’s will than when we bring glory and honor to His name. We were created to worship and adore our Savior. When we lift Him up, we too are lifted—above the mundane, dreary, pain-filled days of mediocrity—to set in heavenly places. As the songwriter said, “He lifts me up to be more than I can be.”

“O Lord, how great are they works!” (Psalm 92:5).

The Kentucky Network of Prayer consists of prayer partners who will commit themselves to prayer for individuals, churches, missionaries, government leaders, organizational leaders, ministries, and other special needs as requested.
